Who We Are

Girl Scouting is the largest organization for girls in the world. Our mission is to build girls of courage, confidence, and character who make the world a better place. Through activities in science and technology, business and economic literacy, and outdoor and environmental awareness, Girl Scouting provides girls with opportunities for fun and friendship while fostering the development of leadership skills and self-esteem.

Founded by Juliette Gordon Low in Savannah, Georgia, on March 12, 1912, Girl Scouts of the USA was chartered by the United States Congress on March 16, 1950. Headquartered in New York City, Girl Scouts has 112 chartered councils nationwide. As one of those 112 chartered councils, the Girl Scouts of South Carolina – Mountains to Midlands provides direct services to girls and the volunteers who work with them, and to the communities that we serve, throughout the Midlands and Upstate regions of South Carolina.

In Girl Scouting, girls develop their leadership potential through activities that enable them to discover their values, skills, and the world around them; connect with others in a multi-cultural environment; and take action to make a difference in the world. Girl Scouting is open to all girls from kindergarten through high school. There are more than 59 million alumnae in the US; nearly one in every two women in South Carolina were or have been a Girl Scout.
